Replacing Your Thermostat- DIY or Call a Pro?

Many people have been able to replace their thermostat themselves with great results. Other times, what seemed like an easy project at the start results in a service call to a professional when it doesn't go as well as planned. So should you try to replace your home thermostat? Click here to learn more...

Stay Safe From Carbon Monoxide

Each year in the U.S. alone, an average of 170 people die from carbon monoxide poisoning. Many more are exposed to this colorless, odorless gas and experience symptoms which can leave permanent damage. Many household appliances including your heating system can produce carbon monoxide. But carbon monoxide poisoning is 100% preventable. Read more...
